THE DEMOCRACY.

A Review of the Situation at the National Convention.

[illegible]ICLE PREVAILS AND KELLY MOURNS

[illegible] Day's Session Transacted but Little Business—Cleveland Apparently Well in the Lead—Hubbard's Speech.

[illegible] July 8—Editorial Correspondence.—In [illegible] and ability the democratic convention is [illegible] body of representative men. The con[illegible] more quiet and orderly than the republi[illegible] of last month, due to the fact that [illegible] contest for the nomination as was [illegible]. Cleveland indeed, occupies a posi[illegible] that of Blaine at the opening of last [illegible], but there is a striking diffe[illegible] the earnestness for Cleveland [illegible] manifested for Blaine. The [illegible] York holds about the same strength that [illegible] held but his supporters are more [illegible] enthusiastic. Cleveland's strength [illegible] supposed ability to carry New [illegible] he has no credit whatever with [illegible]. There is however a vigorous protest [illegible] New York against his nomination [illegible] that he is weak with a large [illegible] will lose me from the democratic [illegible] will gain from the independent [illegible]

CLEVELAND'S STRENGTH

[illegible] the convention by which the unit rule [illegible] a fair indication of Cleveland's [illegible] field. That strength now ap[illegible] It may increase to two-thirds [illegible] the nomination, or it may never [illegible]. The chances, however, are that he [illegible]. There is no bitter opposition to [illegible] of Tammany, and Tammany received [illegible] by the vote which maintained [illegible] The opposition to him does not beat [illegible] and to all places, that he [illegible] carry New York and that his nomi[illegible] walk-over for Blaine. Apparently [illegible] about 100 votes of having two [illegible] convention. These he can easily get if [illegible] convince the delegates that he can [illegible]

[illegible] if the ticket would be Cleveland [illegible] yet Thurman is looked upon as the [illegible] figure in the convention; and [illegible] election in Ohio in October he [illegible] made the standard bearer of the [illegible] to see how the boiling republi[illegible] the action of the democratic party [illegible] unit rule which, when practiced [illegible] was their special abhorrence.

THE TARIFF QUESTION

[illegible] the platform is inevitable. It is [illegible] tree traders will have a majority [illegible] on resolutions, and will report a [illegible] similar to that of 1880. In this case or [illegible] will be a minority report and a [illegible] convention.

[illegible] absence among the delegates [illegible] of that enthusiasm which in[illegible] of success. Every observer here [illegible] democratic party even more divergency [illegible] elements of discord than in the [illegible] convention. The harmonizing of these [illegible] is likely to be more difficult [illegible] convention of republican fac[illegible] democrats see this. The [illegible] and Kelly bode no good to the [illegible] concern. Butler has received and [illegible] nominations for president yet is here [illegible] the democratic convention. He has [illegible] and the democrats fear that [illegible] candidate he may draw off a [illegible] votes in Massachusetts and New [illegible] restlessness of the working [illegible] of the country, with the ap[illegible] of their democratic allegiance [illegible] managers much concern.

[illegible]—Last night was witnessed a repi[illegible] the hotels which equalized the [illegible] when at its height. Inside the hotel [illegible] presented the spectacle of a solid [illegible] predominant headgear was the [illegible] among the great crowd was a lib[illegible] attired ladies who with [illegible] to making their way [illegible] stairways to reach the head[illegible] the hopes apparently of catching [illegible] of the great lights of the conven[illegible] at the head of the marching [illegible] through the vast crowds and [illegible] general confusion. In the [illegible] however, the leaders were hid behind [illegible] their discussing and prepar[illegible] which must be fought on the floor [illegible]

The effects of their [illegible] as there was disclosed a clear [illegible] allegiance of some of the states to [illegible] from the arguments of his oppo[illegible] own reasoning. [illegible] NEW YORK'S SOLID VOTE

[illegible] has the following particulars of [illegible] Having failed to break the [illegible] the next move of his opponents [illegible] unit rule. I had already been de[illegible] that this should be at [illegible] When a motion was made [illegible] of New York as a unit for Cleve[illegible] a storm of objections, and John [illegible] Grady and others threw themselves [illegible]. They attacked Cleveland's avail[illegible] and intimated that a bolt might occur [illegible] nomination was forced upon them [illegible] and said they did not mean it [illegible] the unit rule was an injustice [illegible] would not be downed by it. Grady [illegible] had no right to instruct delegates [illegible] insisted that the state conven[illegible] the delegates and had the authority [illegible] any and all questions. It was [illegible] delegate who was attempting to [illegible] voted for it in the state conven[illegible] to abide by it. For over [illegible] discussion was continued and [illegible] delegates asked for an adjourn[illegible] might have a chance to consult [illegible] a recess was taken. A few [illegible] Grady and General Spinola [illegible] with John Kelly, edged their [illegible] crowd and were ushered into Chair[illegible] private room where a long consul[illegible] to a compromise of the differ[illegible] result in an agreement.

[illegible] reassembled there was an [illegible] discussion. In the meantime two [illegible] for Cleveland and he now had [illegible] It was finally agreed the state should [illegible] the anti-Cleveland men insisted [illegible] the votes should be given the [illegible] was agreed to, and a vote was [illegible] motion that the chair shall an[illegible] the delegates of New York are for [illegible] for Bayard, Flower and Slocum [illegible] instruction of the state convention [illegible] for Cleveland. [illegible] it is undemocratic and [illegible] it is the convention under the unit rule a handful of politicians, who happen to obtain control of a delegation, can throw all the votes of that delegation in favor of their man regardless of their wishes. We expect to overthrow the unit rule in the convention

Will you support Governor Cleveland if he is nominated

I will not lift a hand for him

Will you oppose him?

You can print this as coming from me: I would not oppose a democratic candidate but I will not lift a hand to aid the election of Governor Cleveland if he is nominated. I could not afford to. If he thinks he can be elected without me let him go ahead; but I never will help him. If I were to do so I would break up the Tammany organization, and that I can not and will not do. Tammany's strength is based on the labor votes and they will not support Cleveland. I could not swing them for Cleveland if I would and if I were to try I would disrupt the society. I will never do it

Whom do you prefer for president

Senator Bayard of Delaware

But you are credited to Flower

Tammany will support Flower because he is the most available man to beat Mr. Cleveland with and we think he would be a preferable man. My personal preference however is Bayard

CLEVER JOURNALISTIC ARRANGEMENTS

The Pacific Coast People.

Special.—The California delegation held a meeting last night and received delegations from other states. A personal friend of Tilden's appeared and stated that in no event would Tilden accept even a unanimous nomination. Appreciating the fact that a resolution was adopted that the delegation would vote as a unit for Thurman. General Faulkner of New York addressed the delegation and the result was a decision that they would not vote for Cleveland in any event. Also that the delegation will oppose the unit rule. A resolution was adopted that a committee be appointed to see delegations from other Pacific coast states and endeavor to form a coast delegation, also a resolution to work for Thurman with eastern delegations. The following will be the committeemen: Permanent organization, English; resolutions, Clunie; credentials, Sobindt.

Your correspondent interviewed Buckley last night. He emphatically denied that he favored Field but supported Thurman as a member of the Stockton delegation. Thurman gets the support of Kelly who preferred him or Field to others. He did not think Field cut any figure in the contest and was of the opinion that the fight in the convention would be on a proposition of Tammany first to bind the delegations to the unit rule it was necessary to have a two thirds vote in the delegation, the same as that required of the whole convention to nominate a candidate for president. Buckley thinks that the delegates have not done their duty in working for Thurman and he visited each one of them to day and urged on them the importance of using their influence. He thinks Cleveland can carry California and does not think that the delegation will fall in its duty as regards the pledge against Field

The Field men are systematically working [illegible] manufacturing public opinion. Committees of two and four are detailed from each delegation for other states and are working day and night for their candidate. On the other hand, the California delegation is doing little to counteract the effect of this work. It is not making an aggressive fight but is entertaining delegates at its headquarters. The Field workers use their apathy as a strong argument to back their statements. They claim that a majority of the California delegates are at heart Field men, and with the first break, after a few ballots will go over to Field.

The California Field club had a meeting yesterday afternoon at its headquarters on Michigan avenue with Jesse D. Carr in the chair, and [illegible] Park as secretary

ANTI CLEVELAND WORK

The breach in the ranks of the New York delegation as indicated in these dispatches last night is being used as a very effective weapon by the opponents of Mr. Cleveland, and there is every thing to indicate that the leaning of the southern delegates is toward Bayard or McDonald and to this and those who have been startled at the anti-Cleveland character of the Cleveland movement are now working. Indiana is being urged to stand by their favorite and not to be tempted from their present line of action by a vice presidential offer.

Speaker Carlisle arrived from Washington this morning and gave to swell the active force of revenue reformers now on the ground. The committee on resolutions is generally regarded as having a majority for a conservative platform. It contains however extremists of both wings. A member whose position has not been clearly defined says action of the committee says there will be a majority and a minority report and it is now believed that the subject may have to be fought on the floor of the convention. Another of the things which now appears certain to occur is a fight in open convention over the unit rule and notwithstanding the claims made yesterday by the Tammany men the Cleveland people declare they are ready for the contest also and will defeat it by a handsome majority

SOLID FOR THURMAN

CHICAGO, July 8.—[Special.]—We are still solid for Thurman was the answer from each California delegate last night, and expect to create a boom for the Ohioan before the convention meets. Their efforts so far have not met with gratifying success. After the manner in which the republican delegation from California made its influence felt here, the present delegation seems rather tame. The delegation until Sunday did not accomplish even organization. Since the arrival of English and Clunie the delegates are making a show of work. After an assurance that Tilden will not run and that Thurman will be supported by the Ohio delegation English and Clunie made long arguments before eight delegations. English said last night that he has hopes of Thurman's success, if there is a split in New York on the unit rule.

Chairman Spencer said he would be surprised if Thurman did not lead on the second ballot. We will get up a demonstration to-morrow evening under the auspices of the California delegation. Efforts are being made to get Arkansas and Alabama to go for Thurman and that will give him the first three states called on the roll

AN ABUSED MAN

Alternate Mohere is the most abused man from California for he now insists that he has been misrepresented as working for Field. Last night he addressed a large meeting under the auspices of the Cook county club

Hendricks addressed the Indiana delegation. He was well received. He also spoke at length before the Iroquois club of Chicago. The California Field club is hard at work for their man

Buckley spent the most of yesterday at headquarters, urging the delegates to get to work for Thurman

Carl Browne, the only Butler boomer from the coast said to your correspondent [illegible] half a loaf [illegible] with Butler to-day. He said he is in the fight and would stay a candidate. [illegible] by the Butler managers to work the California delegation [illegible] what had been accomplished but he intimated that after the first break Butler would get several votes in the delegation. Many of them, he says, have expressed themselves in favor of Butler. [illegible] told him that except Thurman, Butler was the strongest man in California

Proceedings of the Convention.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The day opens rapidly only for all the purposes of a great convention hall in the hour [illegible], save that there is a mist in the air which may grow into rain. Crowds began to gather in the vicinity of the great hall in which the democratic national convention is being held at an early hour in the day. The door tenders and ushers reported for duty at 8 o'clock with people then in waiting to enter and secure their seats inside. However there was an approach to chaos the laborers still being engaged in giving the finishing touches after having been employed during all of the preceding night, and they did not leave the main plat form where the decorations were being hung till within half an hour of the time announced for the opening of the convention. When the workmen quitted the building and the floor was cleared the picture presented was majestic and truly so with its seating capacity of 14 000 auditors. Every seat in the vast amphitheater appeared to be occupied, the audience having its full quota of the fair portion of humanity in holiday attire. It is conceded that in picturesqueness the arrangement and [illegible] of the hall exceeds that of the convention of four weeks ago.

At 11 30 the scarlet coated band of the First Illinois regiment took position above the speaker's platform and burst forth with a strain which proved the signal for the arrival of the first of the delegates. The Tennessee men leading the way. From that moment the crowd streamed in without ceasing.

THE GREAT CROWD BECOMES ENTHUSIASTIC

The approach of the hour for the assembling of the convention was marked by the arrival of celebrities in large bodies and the rush of people at the [illegible] was bright and [illegible] galleries [illegible] were cheered [illegible] was hearty. The presence of distinguished leaders [illegible] delegates did not appear to [illegible] the crowd [illegible] arrive. This held true until the familiar figure of [illegible] Thurman of Ohio was discovered [illegible] [illegible]

When the excitement was at its height a California [illegible] the California delegation after [illegible] candidate in the person of Allan G. Thurman of Ohio

Among the United States senators present [illegible] and legal[illegible] delegates, or simply spectators were [illegible] Vance, Beck, Williams, Maxey, Harris, Pendleton, Jones of Florida, [illegible] Lamar [illegible]

[illegible]

SENATOR [illegible] CALLED TO [illegible]

At 12 30 o'clock the convention was called to order by ex-Senator Barnum, chairman of the national committee [illegible] prayer by Rev. Dr. C. [illegible] [illegible]

The chairman said [illegible] Harmony seems to be the sentiment of this convention. Every one seems inclined to be the determination to nominate a ticket for president and vice president which will be satisfactory to the east and to the south to the west; nay more a ticket that will harmonize the democracy throughout the union and insure victory in November. Harmony prevailed in the deliberations of the national committee. No effort was made to nominate a temporary chairman in the interest of any candidate but on the contrary one who shall preside over the deliberations of this convention with absolute impartiality. In that spirit and to that end I have been directed by the unanimous vote of the national committee to nominate the Hon. Richard B. Hubbard of Texas for temporary chairman of this convention. As many as favor the election of the Hon. R. B. Hubbard for temporary chairman of this convention will say Aye. Contrary No. The Hon. R. B. Hubbard of Texas is unanimously elected temporary chairman of the convention

The chair appoints Senator [illegible] Jones of Louisiana, Hon. George T. Barnes of Georgia and Hon. A[illegible] of New York a committee to wait upon Mr. Hubbard and conduct him to the chair

THE HUBBARD'S SPEECH

Mr. Hubbard on being conducted to the chair was received with vociferous applause, and the chairman advancing to the front said: I have the [illegible] to present the Hon. Richard B. Hubbard of Texas as absolutely the impartial temporary chairman of this convention. [Cheers.]

Mr. Hubbard came forward amid [illegible] and said: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the democratic convention of the union [cheers] I am profoundly grateful for the confidence which you have reposed in me in ratifying the nomination of the national executive committee, who has done your bidding for the last four years. For your suffrage I accept, my fellow democrats, as a tribute to a humble citizen and your fellow democrat who speaks to you to-day but rather as a compliment to the great state from which I come [applause] a state which is more than any of the other American states is absolutely cosmopolitan in every fibre of its being. [Applause.] In its early days and struggles there came to our relief as the winds sweep across the sea men of Maine and New England, men of Georgia and along the coast who gave their lives at Alamo and San Jacinto for the freedom of Texas. [Applause.] I only recall to you in the brief moment which I shall detain you, the act by fellow democrats that Texas with her 200,000 of people lately at each recurring election places in the ballot box over 100,000 democratic majority. [Applause.] Fellow democrats we have met upon an occasion of great and absorbing interest to our party as well as to our common country. The occasion would not justify it nor shall I attempt to speak to you of its great history and its distinctive principles through two thirds of the most glorious history of our country. I could not go to disclose if I would its magnificent policy of progression, prowess in territory and its wealth. I can only say to you to-day in brief that the democratic party in all essential elements is the same as when founded by the fathers of the constitution nearly three-fourths of a century ago. [Applause.] Men die as the leaves of autumn but the principles underlying liberty and self government the right of representation and taxation going hand in hand economy in the administration of the government these and others are principles underlying the democratic party which cannot be effaced from the earth though their authors may be numbered with the dead [Cheers.]

THE PAST

Thank God fellow citizens that though we have been out of power for a quarter of a century we are to-day in all that makes adherence and confidence, as much a party organized for aggressive war as when the banners of victory were perched on our heads. The democratic party, fellow citizens since the war time commencing with the reconstruction with our heads manacled with our ballot boxes surrounded by gleaming bayonets with [illegible] bagger with our voices stifled the votes [illegible] freemen who paid their taxes to the government [illegible] resumed its [illegible] and its power. It has the house of representatives and but for treachery [illegible] in the senate chamber we would have that too. [Loud applause.] We have had the president [illegible] [Renewed applause] but with unclean hands the hands of robbers our rights were stricken down at the ballot box and through perjury bribery and corruption ultering false hood through false tire and chartered teeth in the very temple of liberty stole the presidency from this country [Applause.] Some of the men who participated in it have passed beyond the dark river and stand to give an account of their stewardship. But history will not forget [illegible] that the electoral commission with no evidence of fraud, returned the votes of Louisiana for Hayes that was the blackest page of our country's history [applause] and all good republicans to day are ashamed of it. [Loud applause.] They turned their faces as well as their consciences and refused to consider evidence relating to [illegible] bribery and shame [illegible] united in [illegible] man who had received under the constitution and the law the suffrages of his country men

A WRONG TO RIGHT

That is the wrong that we have met here to right. [Applause.] We are told that the [illegible] the verdict to [illegible] That is fair. [illegible] the ballot box [illegible] with guilty hands [illegible] officer of a state and allows a jury sitting in [illegible] to condemn a man to death [illegible] the law he dies what all law [illegible] hundreds of years have cursed and called legal murder. [Applause.] The great sin of the electoral commission remains to day unpunished and ever will be unavenged so long as the republican party [illegible] power in this country. [Applause.] I thank God that there is a statute limiting its running in favor of the party [illegible] and it that [illegible] of the democratic party have exhibited none of that spirit of [illegible] which might have sought to right the country. Fresh as I was upon the heels of a great fraternal war. But our great leaders Tilden and Hendricks—[Here the speaker was interrupted with long continued applause, the delegates rising and waving their hats.] Our great leaders Tilden and Hendricks with the dignity of heroic statesmen with the courage of men who love their country better than its spoil yielded to the wrong and they are grander to day in their defeat than the men who wear the power at the expense of justice and right. [Cheers.] They have succeeded in the face of federal power. We would have succeeded in 1880 but for federal gold and federal greenbacks fresh and new cut from Washington [Applause and laughter.] Money earned and held by star route contractors and the friends of the administration. [Applause.]

REFORM WANTED

Fellow democrats, we want men now whose very lives and very names would be a platform to the people. We want men who shall in all the departments of the government in the department of justice in the postal affairs, in its interior department, every where, follow its servants with the eye of minister of justice and see that every cent that belongs to the government shall remain with the government. [Cheers.] No tribute shall be demanded except the tribute that is due the government. There should be no assessments upon [illegible] paid into a corrupt political fund. These the [illegible] that [illegible] get into power [illegible] [Applause.] The republican party tell us that they have civil service reform and yet they [illegible] the [illegible] from every federal office holder of the 100,000, their tribute to a corrupt fund that shall be [illegible] at the polls. They tell us they have purified the government and yet not a soul [illegible] has been [illegible] in the dock of those who have stolen their millions from the United States treasury. We want reform, reform, my country [illegible] shall mean what it says and that we say what it says. [Cheers.]

A PLATFORM [illegible]

[illegible] my fellow citizens [illegible] presiding officer to day to [illegible] that shall [illegible] your platform [illegible] that we decided [illegible] in your hearts. Every one but has been adopted for fifty years were [illegible]. It is a doctrine which we have inherited from a glorious ancestry. It has been a part of the traditions of our fathers. But I wish to say one thing to the great assemblage of free men, and to your committee on platform—that you will endeavor to unite upon the principles which we have advocated for years that are gone and that you will have no Delphic oracle, speaking with a double tongue on the platform which shall be named by you. [Loud applause.] Let the Green mountain boys of New York and the men of Maine, of Texas, of Louisiana and Georgia, from the Carolinas to the golden coast demand that the committee [illegible] shall say in our native vernacular, in the purest of the English tongue, what they mean so that the wayfaring man though a fool, need not err in reading it. In this we will declare against the corruptions of the republican party that is, we will declare against the enormities of its system of civil service, its department of the judicial justice, its postal service and robbery in high places by men in power. It shall say moreover, that the burden of government should [illegible] upon the [illegible] and [illegible] classes of our countrymen, having respect for the greatest good to the greatest number. [Applause.] That a burden [illegible] surplus revenue shall not be allowed to accumulate as a corrupt fund [illegible] shall be radical reformation [illegible] the taxes, as well as the methods of taxation in our country. [Applause.]

AN APPEAL FOR HARMONY

[illegible] fellow citizens a concluding let me say [illegible] and over all in [illegible] should rule [illegible] There never was a time in the [illegible] the democratic party with [illegible] victory [illegible] and outnumbered hosts of [illegible] the republican party are about to be distant [illegible] New England in New York in Texas and in the west and everywhere and with the Democratic party should [illegible] rise [illegible] It is a party that has [illegible] the constitution and the union that leaves our common country [illegible] will [illegible] rule and [illegible]

The democratic party while it may have its local differences when the hour of the storm comes, will ever gather and whoever you may nominate of all the [illegible] the party to carry him to victory

The democratic party is loyal to the union. The [illegible] in the vulgar parlance of the times has at each succeeding election been flaunted in the [illegible] of southern democrats and in your own faces. With Logan on the ticket I presume it will [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Why, our boys have married [illegible] Why the boys in blue are [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] forget [illegible] have not [illegible] memories of war times.

I thank you fellow citizens for your attention trusting that your forbearance will be extended to me and the many mistakes I shall doubtless make on will treat lightly and kindly with a correcting hand. The success may crown your efforts and that you may send a ticket to our country upon which all may unite is the wish of him whom you have honored with your suffrages this day. [Loud and long continued applause.]

THE UNIT RULES COMES UP

The rest of the temporary organization having then been announced, Smalley of Vermont a member of the national committee offered a resolution that the rules of the last democratic convention shall govern this body except that in voting for candidates no state should be allowed to change its vote until the roll of the states had been called and until every state had cast its vote.

Grady of New York offered as an amendment the following: And when the vote of a state as announced by the chairman of the delegation of such state is challenged by any member of the delegation then the secretary shall call the names of the individual delegates from the state and their individual preferences as expressed shall be recorded as the vote of such state. [Applause.]

THE FELLOWS

John R. Fellows of New York said that the convention of his state had directed that its vote [illegible] with the [illegible] that the sentiments of the majority should be first ascertained and that having been done the vote of the New York delegation should thereafter be cast as a unit. [illegible] convention of New York having placed upon its delegates that instruction [illegible] right of the convention to strip the New York delegation of the right thereby [illegible] would [illegible] without [illegible] of that body

The speaker then read the instruction to delegates passed by the Saratoga convention

Powers of Michigan moved [illegible] offered by [illegible] presented as a reform candidate and an attempt is made to nominate him by [illegible] [illegible]

Harrison of Illinois argued that if the state of New York had been [illegible] the delegates as a unit and they failed to so vote they would be [illegible] but the convention has nothing to do with that. [Applause.] He would probably be found voting differently from Mr. Grady on the question of candidates but he wanted a free vote now

Jacobs of New York said that he was of the minority and would exercise his privilege of voting against the choice of the majority but as a democrat and as a man loyal to his constituents he would submit to the orders of the state convention and bow to the will of the majority. [Applause.]

Grady asked him if at the Saratoga convention there had been a word of discussion as to the unit rule

Jacobs replied that there had not been, but it was because everybody had agreed to it in advance

[illegible]

John Kelly of New York advocated the Grady amendment. There were nearly seventy-two members in the state of New York of which but ten or twelve were democratic. According to the argument of Mr. Fellows was the great democratic counties of New York which would elect a democratic president if an opportunity were given to them, would be disfranchised. That was the principle which was presented and he appealed to the free and intelligent of the convention in favor of Mr. Grady's proposal.

Fellows of New York again spoke against the Grady amendment. There had been no said an extraordinary misconception of the issue involved. It [illegible] sentiment of [illegible] delegate. The question was whether the state of New York had a right to say how the will of her majority should be indicated. [illegible] separate representatives to speak seventy two separate desires on any question before the convention [illegible] democratic [illegible] what her will was, but when the will of the majority was ascertained she had a right to prescribe the form in which that will should be expressed. He [illegible] it was [illegible] the [illegible] which permitted them to be here at all

Kelly replied that Mr. Fellows represented one democratic party in the city of New York and he [illegible] another

Fellows suggested that they represented only the [illegible] organizations in the democratic party.

[illegible] that the gentleman's purpose now was to ignore Kelly and not to allow him to vote in the convention. It was against that that he (Kelly) protested [illegible] [Cheers.]

MR. FELLOWS CONTINUES

Fellows proceeded with his argument. All that the majority of the New York delegates desired was to know what the state had instructed them to do—to express their sentiment under that prescribed form. The convention should not take away that right. It was a right dear to the state of New York. It [illegible] that right she would feel degraded [illegible] He [illegible] that Mr. Kelly at [illegible] were in tender sympathy with each other [illegible] that he had a brighter hope of [illegible] methods of [illegible] when he [illegible] of Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Grady [illegible] and [illegible] applause. The [illegible] New York was the [illegible] and that the [illegible] were never afraid [illegible]

[illegible] whether the national [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] regarded the [illegible] whether the [illegible] delegates [illegible] be permitted to violate and [illegible] whether the convention sitting as a [illegible] nation would recognize an [illegible] and by it

Burke of Louisiana spoke of the [illegible] from [illegible] of New York and took the same view of the question as that presented by Boggs of Wisconsin. It would be an outrage he said to deprive Louisiana delegation of the right to their own [illegible] would be a still greater outrage to deprive a great state of her voice in [illegible] convention [illegible] the delegation should be governed. New York alone had the right to command it. In the state convention every member [illegible] that state [illegible] the enforcement of the unit rule and the delegates itself has [illegible] more than a two thirds majority that its chairman should express the wish of the state by casting its seventy-two votes as one

Hon. A. J. Doolittle of Wisconsin said the question was a fundamental one. That question was a state's right to speak for itself or not. In the election of a president of the United States the state has always spoken as a unit and it could do in no other way. In naming a man to be elected president of the United States should it not be chosen in the same way, that is by the vote of the several states, expressed as a unit. This convention whatever was done in the New York state convention could not control the action of the national democracy

Menzies of Indiana offered as an amendment to the amendment that no state shall change its vote until the result of the ballot has been announced.

GRADY SPEAKS FOR HIS AMENDMENT

Grady of New York spoke in support of his original amendment. There was great danger, he said, that through the power and influence of political machinery the honest and truthful opinion of New York might not have its proper force. The newspapers might be brought to print in their columns that seventy two solid votes from New York would be cast for one candidate, but there was no power to make that so [Laughter.] There were resolute men in the New York delegation who would not only give their reasons why one candidate should not get the nomination, but would have the right to give their votes to that candidate who they thought would be elected [Laughter and cries of "Oh! oh! oh!" and hisses in the galleries

Harris of Virginia made a point of order that the discussion was not in order pending the temporary organization of the convention but the point was overruled by the chairman

Grady continued his speech. There was no power in the convention that could make a ruling [illegible] place [illegible] in the minutes of the convention [illegible] If the [illegible] had [illegible] announced twenty-four [illegible] saying for a certain candidate for which [illegible] had already announced their intention [illegible] and if the secretary so recorded that he would [illegible] would be reported as a [illegible] to which the Herald [illegible] and that would [illegible] on free speech

General Clunie of California said he had come all the way from California to [illegible] the greatest political reformer of the age, Samuel J. Tilden. [Speaking to the question at issue he said] the delegation from New York had been elected by districts at large and it would be an outrage [illegible] minority [illegible] represent [illegible] wishes of their constituents. It the [illegible] decency and fair dealing he said [illegible] should permit the district delegations to vote in accordance with the wishes of those who chose them

[illegible] THE [illegible]

The amendment offered by Menzies of Indiana was withdrawn and the convention proceeded to vote on the amendment offered by Grady of New York requiring the [illegible] and preferences of delegates to be recorded as the vote of their state. There was great interest manifested during the taking of the vote [illegible] vote of the state of New York was withheld temporarily and when all the other states were called the aggregate, without New York stood ayes [illegible] nays [illegible]. The vote of New York was then called for and Manning the chairman of the delegation announced [illegible] votes in the negative. That vote was challenged but the temporary chairman had the [illegible] recorded as announced. The general result was [illegible] ayes 332 noes 463

[illegible] vote was taken on the original resolution offered by Smalley of Vermont and it was adopted.

A resolution was then offered and adopted for the appointment of committees on credentials and permanent organization

The committee on platform was also ordered and it was ordered that all resolutions in regard to the platform be referred to the committee without discussion

Francis of Missouri moved that when the convention adjourn it be till 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. The motion prevailed

The secretary announced a correction of the vote on Grady's amendment as follows: Total vote cast for the amendment 332, against 463 [illegible]

NORTHERN PACIFIC NEWS

President Harris Interviewed at St. Paul—The Company's Intentions

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—[Special.]—Press St. Paul special: President Harris of the Northern Pacific says: Our company has transferred a portion of its St. Paul property to the St. Paul and Northern Pacific and will turn over the transfer grounds. The general offices of the Northern Pacific will not be transferred.

In relation to the combined workings of the different roads at Duluth he said: The Northern Pacific is seeking the best way of reaching Lake Superior. It is its intention to bridge the St. Louis river at either Superior City or South Duluth. If it is found more practicable to make Superior City the terminus it will be done but if Duluth is the more available terminus it will be Duluth

He thought it was the intention of the Montana company, with whom we have contracted for twenty-seven years, to enter Superior City, or perhaps Duluth, and there would be mutual terminal arrangements between all roads entering there. The Omaha was already established at Superior City, but he could not of course say what the Manitoba would do. The relations of the Northern Pacific to the Oregon and Transcontinental are unchanged. There is no truth in the talk that the Northern Pacific is trying to injure or cripple in any way any other company with which it has separate relations. The general condition of our road is excellent. Business during the last ten months was almost marvelous for a new road. The earnings for the fiscal year will be $14,000,000

ST. PAUL, July 7.—Special.—Harris, president of the Northern Pacific says it is the intention of the company to complete the extension of the Cascade division at once. Fifty miles are already built and he expects to let the contract for building fifty miles more before he returns. That would be half the [illegible] distance and the rest would be pushed as rapidly as possible. The tunnel on the summit of the mountains will be nearly two miles in length and several months will be required to complete it. When the Northern Pacific has been finished to Puget sound and connection made with the steamship line to Japan, as contemplated, one of the world's greatest highways will be formed. The distance from Puget sound to Japan is much less than from San Francisco

IN WALL STREET

What the Papers Say of the Grant & Ward Exhibit—Notes

NEW YORK, July 8.—Special.—Grant & Ward's exhibit provoked sarcastic criticism from the leading journals. The Tribune says the report shows to what a science the art of not keeping books can be brought.

Herald: A third of a cent on account of principal is not much to be sure, where one expected to get 120 per cent a month as interest, but it is something. It is at least a third of a cent more than might have been expected. The assignees has had to shut up in making out the schedules owing probably to the careless habit of keeping the firm's accounts penciled on his shirt cuffs and then sending it off to the wash

The Times is more hopeful. It says: "Beyond the $7,000 cent assets there is a chance of the general creditors getting something out of the property of the firm over which the lawyers are struggling and there is also a possibility that the first preferred creditors will be compelled to yield new assets by paying back the millions of dollars profit they received on investments of it on [illegible]

The Sun says: "The receiver's exhibit is the handsomest stroke of [illegible] ever seen in Wall street [illegible] accounts for some of the discrepancy but [illegible] a very small proportion. Astute Ward [illegible] got away with the most of it."

[illegible] THE DECLINE

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Special.]—The Journal says: The decline in [illegible] Western Union yesterday was due to a report that final steps had been taken in a movement to consolidate the Postal, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Bankers' and Merchants' companies. A conference of the above companies was held at the office of the Postal company on [illegible] day which lasted all the afternoon. President Bates of the Baltimore and Ohio said he was not at liberty to speak of the details of the meeting but [illegible] the conference had been most important

FAILURE OF DYETT & CO.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The failure of Dyett & Co was announced at the stock exchange this afternoon. They have proper contracts in the board. This is [illegible] with which John C. [illegible], president of the [illegible] National bank, is [illegible]

It Is at Everywhere.—E. B. Hall, druggist at Hiattville, Kan., has this to write about Allen's Lung Balsam: "It is the best selling throat and lung remedy, and gives general satisfaction. I cheerfully recommend it."

Charles A. Reed of Newton, Mass., directed in his will that $20,000 should be given to the United States for the payment of so much of the public debt. This sum together with $1000 accumulated interest has just been paid into the sub-treasury at Boston

SARGENT INTERVIEWED.

What he Says of Bismarck and the American Hog—His Political Views

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Special.]—Being interviewed Sargent said: The political position of Bismarck in Germany is precarious depending upon a majority of the votes in the reichstag. In looking around to see how he could strengthen himself in that respect he saw that the junker party something corresponding to our granger party was open to approach. Hence his policy has been in favor them. He first excluded potatoes then canned meats and last our hogs. As these measures were contrary to the existing treaty it became necessary for him to have some excuse for shutting out American products. Therefore he alleged that American hogs were diseased. Germany is a great pork country but cannot supply all her wants in that direction and in reality American pork is far superior to the native article but Bismarck gave the preference to the imported article to Russia, Austria and Hungary, nations which he wished to cultivate. I am going to California and I don't intend to remain idle politically or otherwise. The Chinese question is the slavery question of the Pacific coast. But for the passage of the restriction law San Francisco was in danger of becoming a Hong Kong. The citizens of California prefer their capital city to New York or [illegible] and prefer a Christian to a pagan civilization.

HIS VIEW OF THE [illegible] CANDIDATE

The Times reporter quotes Sargent as saying: Blaine was the first choice of California. My first choice [illegible] the republican party. Blaine was nominated partly because his opponents could not agree on their own man and it seems hard for those defeated fairly in the convention to say to sterling republican states which supported Blaine: You shall gain nothing by your fairly won victory

Do you know Blaine personally?

Of course. He is more like Henry Clay than any other man of this generation. Clay was the victim of traducers who pursued him relentlessly. According to this view he was bribed by office and was generally reported to have been participator in a murder. Blaine will not be defeated by these tactics. I have seen too much justification for our own protective system in what I have observed lately in Europe to wish to see it overthrown by the democracy no matter who is their nominee

Sargent will remain in the city a day or two and then go to Washington to report to Frelinghuysen. After that he will take a trip east to spend a few days with friends and then go to San Francisco arriving about August

ANOTHER INTERVIEW

NEW YORK, July 8.—Special.—The Herald reports Sargent as saying: I return with great pleasure of having gone to Berlin. I resign [illegible] this most excellent appointment. Kasson is a strong man and I am glad on the whole that the place has not been left vacant, but an uncertainty of one thing [illegible] minister at Berlin will have to work at a good many things or he will find his position made very hot for him under Germany's present policy. I have no desire to belittle Bismarck in the slightest degree but he tries to do the entire thing of a nation. No man can do that successfully

Do you feel that our government failed to support you?

I do not care to talk about that. It would probably have been better if the government had acted more promptly. What strange is that the [illegible] can perceive enough be content to remain in their present [illegible] treating to the [illegible] were [illegible] never [illegible] a [illegible]

[illegible] he might [illegible] with Bismarck

[illegible] the Herald's [illegible] alarm to that regard? said Sargent [illegible] much I am not over [illegible] I am willing to admit [illegible] were no [illegible] choice

THE SESSION'S RECORD

How it Compares with that of the Last Congress—The Measures Passed

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Special.—The record of the first session of the forty eighth congress under democratic control [illegible] For its sins of omission and commission [illegible] the democratic party must answer [illegible] has been in session a little over seven months and [illegible] besides the regular appropriation bills [illegible] has passed but few bills of national importance. During the session there has been introduced in the house about 8000 bills and joint resolutions. During the first session of the forty seventh congress about the same number was [illegible] number of measures of a national importance passed by the forty eighth congress at its first session largely exceeds the number of similar measures passed during the first session of the last congress. At the first session of the forty seventh congress there was enacted [illegible] laws [illegible] the measures [illegible] the [illegible] Chinese [illegible] the tariff [illegible] commission bill [illegible] the extension of the corporate existence of national banks [illegible] bill [illegible] was known as the bill [illegible] forty seventh [illegible] many of the [illegible] measures. The [illegible] bill and some of the others were passed by democratic votes

The record of the first session of the present congress shows the passage of such measures as the Dingley shipping bill [illegible] of labor to establish a bureau [illegible] to prevent the spread of [illegible] diseases [illegible] a bureau of statistics [illegible] the court of Alabama claims [illegible] department [illegible] reform measures [illegible] regular appropriation bills.

A COMPARISON [illegible] FAVORABLE

A comparison of the work of the two congresses during the first session is not in the least unfavorable to the present one. While the session just ended has not been a very lively one it has been a remarkable one in many respects. The record shows neither indolence nor neglect or inattention to public business in the house nor can the charge of criminal delay in reporting measures from committees made against the last congress be made to this. There have been no jobs or extravagance, or unreasonable expenditure of public money incorporated in any appropriation bill but on the contrary many much needed reform measures have been enacted into laws in that way

The working classes of the country have not been neglected by the present congress. The Chinese bill the bureau of labor bill and the bill prohibiting the importation of foreign labor which passed the house but failed to be reached in the senate were measures demanded by the working classes

The soldiers of the late war received a share of the legislation of the session just ended, the bill removing the charge of desertion from the records of those soldiers who left their commands before being regularly mustered out being a measure earnestly desired by a large number of the soldiers of the late war.

Though the present congress may have neglected to do many things which ought to have been done it has not done anything which it ought not have done and it cannot be charged as it was against the last congress that profligacy has reigned or that extravagant expenditures have had free course or that during the session just ended the dignity and honor of the nation has been forgotten or the interests of the people betrayed

RAILROAD NOTES

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC'S SURRENDER

NEW YORK, July 8.—Special.—The Times financial article referring to the new arrangement by the Central Pacific's surrender of the Mojave division of the Southern Pacific says: This negotiation relieved the Central Pacific of its most pressing pecuniary wants but at an immense cost. It gives the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe the right to enter San Francisco over the Southern Pacific lines on equal terms with that company and this gives the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy the same privilege. The Central Pacific therefore loses its monopoly of the California trade. Hard necessity has forced it to admit a rival to its territory and to make its own lines their route of entry. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy can run from Chicago to San Francisco. It is a noteworthy fact that in every case where the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy has gone into a contest it has worsted its opponents

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Special.—Miller's amendment to the naval bill providing for continuing work upon the Monadnock, which was rejected by the house last night, was receded from by the senate today. The amendment was defeated in the house last night by a very small majority, and the position taken by the house on the amendment rendered it necessary for the senate to concur in order to reach an adjournment to-day

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1884.

THE CONVENTION.

The democratic convention gets on slowly, as all national conventions do on the first day. The temporary organization signifies nothing. The unit rule will give New York to Cleveland, though this by no means protects him against the opposition there is in the convention. The Texas man "sloshed around" badly in his speech accepting the office of temporary chairman, and all attempts at harmony bring results that may well be suspected of but superficial value to the Bourbons.

A BAD RECORD.

While waiting for the democrats to make their appointment at Chicago, there is time to take a look at the work of the party in congress during a session of seven months. The majority has been quite diligent and successful in voting democrats into seats to which republicans were elected, notably in the instances of McKinley of Ohio and Peelle of Indiana, whose seats were given to Wallace and English. It has also defeated all attempts at the establishment of a decent navy, and tried to make some reputation by trimming appropriations, in many instances where there was no good reason for doing so, with a full treasury and the requirements of a growing country constantly increasing in every department.

There was a telegraphic list of measures which have become laws printed yesterday morning. Most of them were of a character to excite but little comment—mainly demanded by the condition of affairs in connection with or consequent upon previous legislation. The reduction of newspaper postage to one cent for all single papers, was a good move, but nothing to brag of; the provision for a civil government in Alaska was something that had to be made; the law establishing a bureau of labor statistics may bring some good results, but just how it will do the laboring men any good it is not easy to see. It is all the democrats have done, in any shape, for them, and they must get all the comfort out of it they can. The shipping bill, a republican measure defeated by the democrats last session, is probably the most important of any of the bills passed outside the regular appropriation bills. It reduces some of the charges that surrounded the mercantile marine, cuts off other charges, and so provides for the just treatment of American sailors in foreign ports, and for the shipment of crews without unreasonable commissions, etc., that much good may be hoped from it. None of the other measures mentioned amount to enough for any party to be proud of. They all originated in the senate, except the shipping bill, which is the work of a republican representative—Dingley of Maine—and excepting, also, the bills which narrow down in a niggardly way the machinery for collecting internal revenue taxes without reducing the rate of taxation, which was really the first thing demanding attention. To-day the number of revenue officers is rather too small than too great, while the revenue collected from internal sources is much greater than required.

The senate has been busy with much that should have received attention from the house, and the house calendar may be held up as the most condemnatory document that can be produced against the great democratic majority.

Without undertaking to go through the list, we will call attention to some of the important bills that come to mind. There are others as important, undoubtedly, that cannot be remembered for use in this general illustration of democratic inefficiency. There is the act to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States. We have been without a bankrupt law long enough for the business men in all the states to heartily wish they had one. Many of them would prefer to do business under one as satisfactory as that which was repealed rather than have none at all, and they are not likely to overlook the fact that a very perfect and carefully prepared one came from the senate and was hung up in the house. The lawyers will wonder why the house did not pass the senate bill to amend Sec. 673 of the revised statutes, relating to the quorum of the supreme court of the United States, and for other purposes. This bill is needed to facilitate the business of the court now more than three years in arrears. From a long list at the end of bills pending a week ago, we make the following selection. We have seen no account of the passage of any of them by the house, though they were sent from the senate to that body several weeks ago.

We have called attention to some of these bills before, and might greatly extend the list; but it serves our present purpose to cite these important measures which the house might have passed but did not.

"An act to provide for the issue of circulating notes to national banking associations." This is one of several important bank measures to which the house has paid no attention.

"An act amendatory of an act entitled 'An act for the relief of certain settlers on public lands and to provide for the repayment of certain fees, purchase money, and commissions paid on void entries of public lands,' approved June 16, 1880."

"An act to authorize the construction of additional steel vessels for the navy."

"An act to amend Sec. 4887 of the revised statutes in relation to patents." This is a bill of great importance to all interested in inventions.

"An act to provide agricultural lands for the southern band of Ute Indians in lieu of lands heretofore provided for allotment to them." This is a measure to carry out an agreement with the Indians, failure to enact which might result in a new Ute war.

"A bill to provide for the removal of obstructions to the free navigation of the navigable waters of the United States." This is a bill of importance to every common carrier and shipper on waterways.

"An act to authorize the postmaster-general to lease premises for the use of postoffices of the first, second and third classes." This bill would save the government thousands of dollars annually.

"An act fixing the salaries of the several judges of United States district courts at $5000 per annum, and for other purposes."

"An act to provide for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians on the various reservations, and to extend the protection of the laws of the states and territories over the Indians, and for other purposes." This is admitted to be one of the most important measures to aid in civilizing Indians.

"An act to amend section 2776 of the revised statutes of the United States so as to authorize the unloading of coal, salt, railroad iron, and other like articles in bulk, under the superintendence of customs officers, at the expense of parties interested, at places to be designated by the secretary of the treasury within the collection district."

"An act relating to the improvement of the coinage."

"An act to amend section 1000 of the revised statutes in relation to giving security in cases on appeal or writ of error."

"An act to aid the establishment and temporary support of common schools." The zeal of the democracy in the cause of popular education is shown by the neglect of this measure.

"An act to amend section 5388 of the revised statutes of the United States in relation to timber depredations." This is a bill of the greatest importance.

"An act to accept and ratify certain agreements made with the Sioux Indians, and to grant a right of way to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company through the Sioux reservation in Dakota."

"An act to accept and ratify certain agreements made with the Sioux Indians, and to grant a right of way to the Dakota Central Railway Company throughout the Sioux reservation in Dakota." The failure of the house to act upon these two bills will greatly retard the development of the northwest.

"An act to amend section 2148 of the revised statutes of the United States in relation to trespassers on Indian lands."

"An act to provide for the sale of the Iowa Indian reservation in the states of Nebraska and Kansas, for the issuance of a patent for a reservation for the Iowa tribe of Indians in the Indian territory, and for other purposes."

"An act providing for allotment of lands in severalty to the Indians residing upon the Umatilla reservation in the state of Oregon, and granting patents therefor, and for other purposes."

"An act to accept and ratify an agreement with the confederated tribes of the Flathead, Kootenay and Upper Pend d'Oreille Indians for the sale of a portion of their reservation in the territory of Montana required for the use of the Northern Pacific railroad and to make necessary appropriations for carrying out the same."

Nothing that can be put in the platform at Chicago will convince the people of the country that a party leaving so much undone is a desirable one to have in power. However much the people may sometimes get dissatisfied with the republican party, it is quite enough to cure them of their longing for a change to have one term with the democrats. The chances are, twenty to one, that President Blaine will have, as the effect of all this negligence and indifference on the part of the forty-eighth congress, the support of a good working majority in the house as well as in the senate for the greater part, if not for all of his term of office.

THE INCREASING SURPLUS.

The reduction of $101,000,000 in the public debt for the fiscal year ending June 30 is less than for the preceding year, but it is still of a character which astonishes the governments of the old world. In the ten years ending with 1883 England reduced her public debt only $100,000,000. The English debt is now more than twice as large as ours, and it bears a longer rate of interest. At the present rate of payment our debt will be extinguished in about thirteen years, but as the last of the bonds cannot be paid for twenty-three years, the large surplus that is now lying idle in the treasury will increase to an enormous and very dangerous amount unless taxation is very materially reduced. The surplus is now indeed enormous—nearly $400,000,000 and during the past year it has been increased $47,000,000. The receipts were about $50,000,000 less and the expenditures about $20,000,000 less than for the fiscal year of 1883. One-half of the reduction in expenditures occurred in payments for pensions. The reduction in interest payments amount to $4,500,000. In spite of the promises and predictions of supporters of the new tariff which went into effect one year ago, the customs receipts fell off only $19,000,000, and the bulk of this reduction is properly attributable to the decline in importations and not to the reduction of duties. The falling off of internal revenue receipts was something over $22,000,000, and miscellaneous receipts a little over $8,000,000. Notwithstanding the uncertain operations of the new tax laws, the estimates of receipts and expenditures made by the chief of the warrant division last November turn out to have been remarkably accurate. The customs receipts were $195,637,291. The estimate was $195,000,000. The total receipts of $348,000,000 were $57,000,000 in excess of the estimates.

The total outstanding debt is $1,830,528,923. The total debt, less cash in the treasury, is $1,450,050,285. The $347,000,000 of greenbacks, $218,000,000 of gold and silver certificates, $12,000,000 of certificates of deposit and $7,000,000 of fractional currency bear no interest. The government pays interest on $1,226,563,850. More than half of this, $738,000,000, at the rate of 4 per cent., $250,000,000 at 4½ per cent., and 224,000,000 at 3 per cent. The 3 per cents. are the only bonds that can be paid whenever the government wishes, the 4½ per cents. not being redeemable until the year 1891, and the 4 per cents. not until 1907.

The most striking thing in this exhibit is the large hoarded sum that is not required to extinguish the public debt or to maintain the government. Statesmen of the type represented by Senator Ingalls of Kansas say that the great problem of the government now is to invent some respectable way of using up this surplus, and they would distribute back to the people, in the form of pensions and bounties of various kinds, the surplus which is collected from them in the form of taxes. This has only the doubtful merit of furnishing employment and support for a large body of tax gatherers, such as cursed the Roman provinces in the declining days of the empire. It is paternalism gone to seed. The surplus, and the temptations which it offered to extravagance and corruption, was one of the most powerful causes of the political revolution two years ago. A more statesmanlike and patriotic plan of dealing with the problem is to relieve the people of the taxation which produces the unnecessary revenue, leaving to the large sinking fund of nearly four hundred millions already on hand the work of paying the principal of the public debt as rapidly as it matures under the terms of issue, a work which it could easily do if economy were exercised in the ordinary expenditures of the government. The money which the government can use is worth to it at present only 3 per cent. per annum, the rate of interest on the public debt, while in the hands of the people it is worth an average throughout the country of at least twice that amount. The tax payers therefore lose 50 per cent., at least, of the interest value of their money by parting with it to swell the surplus revenues of the government.

It has sometimes been claimed that Illinois was a close state, and this year it is trying to make a bid for democratic consideration by methods which belong to the Butler school of politics. Carter Harrison, the jolly saloon mayor of Chicago, has been spread out over the entire state by a democratic nomination for governor in a convention of a most distinctively rowdy character. The programme is to bid for the German vote by setting up a whisky game and try to rope in all the quieter elements that are now and always will be protected in their rights to make and drink beer. The whisky men are a powerful set in Illinois, both as distillers and dealers, and Harrison is treating with them for a pass to the governorship and thence onward to the United States senate. It is not a promising outlook for him, inasmuch as the state, under republican rule, framed a state license law which is the surest possible protection against agitation obnoxious to the Germans. It is a play which will depend for its success upon the baser elements of society, and it will probably be found not so effective when referred to the voters of the entire state as when confined to the city of Chicago, where Harrison was hand-in-glove with every gambler and prostitute. It was not because he fancied them to be fair about stating it—but because the peculiarities of Chicago politics makes it possible for these classes to control. It will not win in the state of Illinois this year. Illinois is the home of Logan, and Blaine is an Illinois favorite, to say nothing of the Oglesby influence, which will play an important part.

The Philadelphia Times says that at a reception given to Blaine some years ago, by George W. Childs, Blaine was presented to several hundred gentlemen whom he had never met before, and when they bid him farewell at the end of the entertainment addressed each one by his name without making a single mistake. When Dr. Joseph Addison Alexander was a professor in Princeton seminary he was accustomed to prepare a perfect catalogue of the new class of students, giving their full names and residence and the college from which they graduated, after hearing their credentials read in the oratory on matriculation day. Such phenomenal memories are very rare, however, and they are of more value to politicians than to any other class of men. It is an indirect compliment to a man to remember his name, and the politician who is able to do this possesses one of the requisites for "winning his way."

President Arthur's latest appointments, before the adjournment of the senate, were three commissioners to ascertain the best mode to secure more intimate international and commercial relations between the United States and the several countries of Central and South America. This is a step in the direction of Blaine's foreign policy; in fact, it is an undertaking the intent of which is to accomplish precisely what Blaine had in mind by the American international convention that was to have been called, had his plans been carried out. Some laid it to a desire in President Arthur to rebuke the Blaine policy when the invitations for such a convention were recalled. Now it transpires that Arthur appoints a commission for the very same purpose and puts at the head of it his life-long friend, General George H. Sharpe of New York.

An English paper, which has missed some of its American exchanges, thus comments: "The party papers in the United States are now busy abusing the opposing candidates for president. The democratic nominee is George Washington Curtis, and the republican papers do not talk of any one else. The republican candidate is one Stephen Grover of Cleveland, governor of New York, and all the democratic papers are trying to show how unworthy a man he is."

The telegraphic dispatches inform us that "General Bristow will support Justice Field cordially." Of course he will, if he has an opportunity. He began by waiting to support Arthur, when he thought the president would be renominated, and he will end by supporting whoever he thinks will win. He will not stop at Field.

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTERING OF DEER.—John Dun[illegible] on the west side road who is in the habit of taking a yearly hunt for deer in the mountains of southern Oregon a few days since received a letter from a friend at Grant's Pass of which the following is an extract: "I expect you will this fall to take your annual hunt. You will have to come as soon as you can if you want deer. The hunters are killing them off very fast. You will hardly believe me when I tell you that two [illegible] now encamped eight miles below here brought in and sold here last week 13 deer, all killed during ten days in June. One of them told me that he killed twelve deer in one day, in two days caught ten fawns which he [illegible]. When asked what he did with the venison he said nothing with it. His name is Stone[illegible] and his partner's name is Ferris. They get [illegible] a pound of skins. I saw the skins and this [illegible] of skins. I can prove [illegible] to some of them [illegible] that these hunters have been slaughtering [illegible] all this summer along the canyon by the [illegible]. All small mountain streams are dried up and the animals are obliged to gather along the larger [illegible] and there is where they catch them. The [illegible] scoundrels defy the law and say they have a perfect right to hunt on government lands [illegible] this business was stopped. Just [illegible] how many poor little fawns these rascals have [illegible] to starve and die." The above is from a reliable source and there is no doubt of its truth. The authorities of that section must be [illegible] in their duties to allow such wholesale [illegible] of the game law. The first game law of Oregon was originated in that part of the state and was intended to prevent just such scandals [illegible] of deer for their skins as is mentioned [illegible]. These hunters should be in the penitentiary [illegible] better have their hides made into drums [illegible] the barking, lazy, useless brutes are worse [illegible] coyotes. The people of southern Oregon should combine and hunt them out of the [illegible].

BETWEEN HUSBAND AND WIFE.—Yesterday Mrs. S. Sonneland, the wife of a [illegible] on Fifth street between Washington and [illegible], was arraigned in Justice Greene's court on a charge of adultery preferred by her husband. John Hansen, a young painter, is the man charged with Mrs. Sonneland. When first arrested he could not give bonds and therefore occupied a cell in the city jail. Mrs. Sonneland has found bail in the person of Fred. R. Strong. In consequence of the absence of an important witness for the defense the case was continued until 2 o'clock [illegible]. The accused were released on $ [illegible] which was promptly furnished by respondents. Several months ago Sonneland who [illegible] lived very happily with his wife [illegible] and convicted of striking his wife a blow with a large brush full of paint. For this offense he was fined $10 and costs. At that time he made a speech in court stating that he [illegible] and that his wife was a French [illegible] and quite proficient in music which she [illegible]. He also asserted that the trouble [illegible] was caused by the neighbors who [illegible] telling his wife that he was intolerable [illegible] and that she should have had [illegible]. Probably all this has [illegible] disposition in Sonneland and the [illegible] his wife are the result. Respectable [illegible] have known Mrs. Sonneland since her [illegible] assert that her life has been [illegible] particular, and they consider the [illegible] her husband to be of the nature of a [illegible] her friends, and especially those of [illegible] believe her to be an innocent woman [illegible] that she will be fully vindicated.

[illegible] STREET SUPERINTENDENT IS—THE [illegible] asked several times yesterday of One [illegible] "Who is Frank Vaughn, the newly [illegible] street superintendent?" For some time [illegible] one of the publishers and a reporter [illegible] Mercury. A friend of Mr. Vaughn has [illegible] to publish the following statement [illegible] inquiry by the Telegram last night as [illegible] possessed the qualifications of a civil engineer [illegible] required by the city charter. He took a [illegible] course in the Oregon state university [illegible] years of the existence of that institution [illegible] afterwards he was employed as a railroad [illegible] Division Engineer Hurlburt and [illegible] on the railroad until it was finished [illegible] last year. His residence has been [illegible] since 1876 and he went to the state university [illegible] a scholarship from Multnomah county [illegible] by Hon J N Dolph who was state [illegible] there. After leaving the university he [illegible] his career at engineering.

[illegible] ASSOCIATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES.—The association of Congregational churches [illegible] annual meeting with the First Congregational church of this city Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and on Sunday. The exercises [illegible] very interesting, and to all the meetings the public is cordially invited. Delegates who have [illegible] their cards of introduction will, if they [illegible], call at the store of G. Shindler [illegible] First street. Those who reach the city [illegible] on Thursday or later will report at [illegible]. The committee on entertainment will [illegible] at the church during the session [illegible] everything to make the visit of the delegates [illegible]. Friday evening the ladies of the [illegible] give a reception to the members of the [illegible] and their friends and all who are interested in the growth of Congregationalism in the [illegible] are cordially invited.

[illegible].—Yesterday morning Mr W H Boot [illegible] in this city for the Pullman Palace [illegible], was married to Miss Bertha B. McBride, daughter of Mr. S. McBride. The ceremony [illegible] at the family residence, corner of B and [illegible], Rev. Dr. A. L. Lindsley of the First [illegible] church officiating. Only the family [illegible] friends were present. After the [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Boot left by the [illegible] for a tour of the Atlantic states to [illegible] six weeks. Upon their return they [illegible] house keeping at a cottage on Twen[illegible] street, recently erected by Mr. Boot in anticipation of the happy event. The bride is a graduate [illegible] High school and among her many [illegible] is deservedly popular. Mr Boot has lived [illegible] and the faithful and zealous in the discharge of [illegible] to his employers has made a wide circle [illegible].

[illegible].—This evening the ladies of the [illegible] church will give a lawn party (postponed [illegible] on account of the weather) on the [illegible] of Mr. H. L. Pittock, corner Eighth and [illegible] streets. The night promises to be [illegible]. A portable floor has been laid for dancing [illegible] and arranged refreshments will be [illegible] at convenient tables and the entire lawn will [illegible] illuminated. Those who attended a [illegible] given on these grounds two years ago [illegible] reminded of the remarkably pleasant [illegible] enjoyment. They will remember it well [illegible] what is in store for them to-night [illegible] the Unitarian ladies understand [illegible] to entertain their guests and at each [illegible] improve on preceding efforts.

[illegible] BURGLARY.—Shortly after noon yesterday [illegible] Rev. T. D. Reed, the colored minister while [illegible] preparing the exordium of his sermon [illegible] at his residence near the corner of [illegible] heard some one attempting to [illegible] the windows. Mr. Reed remained quiet and [illegible] the same person insert keys in several [illegible] trying to open them. Finally the man [illegible] the front door and demanded to [illegible] business. He said he hadn't [illegible] in thirty-six hours and begged a meal [illegible] unable to buy the thief a meal if he [illegible] to the nearest restaurant and buy [illegible]. They had not proceeded more [illegible] when the vagabond struck out at a lively [illegible] toward the hills followed by Mr. Reed [illegible] out of wind.

[illegible] CHINOOK LADY.—The Lynnville [illegible], Jasper county, Iowa, states that [illegible] of Oregon, 23 years of age and [illegible] pounds, is visiting relatives in that [illegible]. She was born in Portland May 11 1856 [illegible] all about the Indians of the far west [illegible] their language as well as any one living [illegible] children of Peter Stice, who [illegible] years old. The Iowa folks are likely [illegible] opinions concerning the state and [illegible] they take this lady for a sample. They [illegible] imagine that Portland is in the Indian [illegible] that all talk wawa Chinook jargon and [illegible] young lady can wear less than a No. 47 [illegible].

[illegible] A RUNAWAY.—W. Dearberry who re[illegible] south of the city came to town [illegible] with a double team, his wife and child [illegible] friend accompanying him. His team became [illegible] frightened in some manner and ran away [illegible] street, and turning up Front ran on [illegible] on the east side throwing Mr. Dear[illegible]. His face and head were badly bruised and [illegible] nearly severed from the head and an [illegible]. The horses brought up against a [illegible] in front of Jones' spice mill breaking the [illegible] themselves of the vehicle. The [illegible] unhurt. The injured man had his [illegible] dressed by Dr. Fraser and was sent home.

[illegible] WANTED.—Last night a mail brought the [illegible] anonymous communication. It may be [illegible] the publication. Charles M. Loyd [illegible] lived in this city and whose present [illegible] is unknown has been left a hand[illegible] by his grandfather who resided in [illegible] County Ohio. Any one sending his [illegible] to Perry J Richie as attorney at law [illegible] County Ohio will confer a great [illegible] Boyd.

[illegible] LARCENY.—Mary Cunzo was fined $15 on each [illegible] and the charge of larceny from a [illegible] continued till to-day. The judge told her [illegible] behave herself, stay in jail or leave [illegible]. She will find that there is a difference between [illegible] and Denver. J. A. Price, [illegible] was [illegible]. The case of Charles Whetstone, accused [illegible] was continued till to-day.

[illegible] DISTRICT ATTORNEYS.—C. H. Hewitt has [illegible] appointed deputy district attorney for the [illegible] of Coach, Morrison, Madison and [illegible] precincts and at the police court [illegible] requires. Charles A. Petrain has [illegible] deputy for the western and South [illegible] courts.

[illegible].—Mrs. Ellen Foster, who comes [illegible] of the national W C T U, will [illegible] an evening at Taylor street church [illegible] Prohibition. Her views of this [illegible] and near and it is hoped no one [illegible] the subject will miss this last opportunity.

[illegible].—From a telegraphic dispatch sent [illegible] New York Post it is found that [illegible] now and always has been their [illegible] correspondent for Portland. His [illegible] the New Market is the outgrowth of [illegible]

A BEAUTIFUL PAIR.—Yesterday Mrs. Mary Marr, one of the landlords of the Virginia house on the corner of Third and B streets, was on trial in Justice Bushwiler's court upon three separate charges of larceny by bailee. The complaining witnesses were three sailors who testified that Mrs. Marr retained and refused to give up their luggage after they had tendered her the full amount of board due the house. Mrs. Marr tried to establish the fact that her husband, one James Marr, not she was the boss, and claimed that she could not be held responsible. The court took the case under advisement until this afternoon. It is indeed unfortunate that the law cannot lay hold and punish both of them. They are the typical sailor boarding house keepers against whom the indignation of sailors, masters and ship owners goes out. This Marr on the 5th of June last shipped two seamen on the ship Henry Villard who claimed that he received as advance and blood money for them $15 for which all they received in return was one day's board each and a few articles the whole of which did not cost $1. Upon signing articles they were arrested upon a trumped up charge and placed in the county jail till the ship sailed on the following morning. Their baggage was examined by a person employed on the Villard, who found them destitute almost of the simplest necessities. The sailors who brought the suit above referred to were probably destined to the same treatment.

UNSATISFACTORY LAUNCHING.—The new steam tug to be used as a tender for the city dredger was to have been launched from the shipyard above Smith's sawmill at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but owing to an unfortunate spreading of the ways the crowd that had gathered to witness the ceremony was disappointed. Workmen began to remedy the fault and by some time this morning it is expected the boat will be in the river, although no further attempt at launching at a specified time will be made. Mayor Chapman, together with several of the councilmen and other city officials, were present and thoroughly inspected the new craft. She will be named the Hermonia in honor of the mayor's daughter. The tug is a handsome vessel [illegible] feet long, 15 feet beam and [illegible] feet depth. She is a propeller with a 14x14 engine. The boiler is 48 inches in diameter and [illegible] feet long, with return tubular firebox and water back connections. The propeller and rudder are both in place and but little more is needed to place her in first class running order. The construction of this tug has been under the careful supervision of Captain D. E. Buchanan, who is familiar with all the requirements which such a boat should possess. The entire cost of the tug will be near $6000.

ONE ON JANAUSCHEK'S JOKER.—The death of Mr. Pillot, Madame Janauschek's husband, recalls a story told here by Mr. Nat Childs of Boston, who was her manager on the Pacific coast two years ago. Like most husbands of noted actresses Pillot was worth less. Though well educated and of good family he did nothing to support himself and became a millstone around her neck. When Madame Janauschek arrived in Philadelphia one of her favorite cities from Europe in 1881, a well known local manager made a social call. She made inquiries concerning a leading man who had supported her two years before, and was informed that he was dead. Madame Janauschek expressed her deep regret. A few minutes later she inquired after another mutual acquaintance and received the news that he had died only the week before. With a despondent shake of the head the great tragedienne remarked: "Everybody dies but Pillot."

CHANCE FOR CHEAP STREET LIGHTING.—If report be true and the city council take advantage of the situation, Portland stands a chance to have her streets well lighted without paying more than the service is worth. The bid from the Oregon Electric Company is already in and was published yesterday. It is stated that the U. S. Light Company as soon as they can demonstrate that they are able to light the streets in a satisfactory manner—and this they expect to do in a few days—will make a proposition to the council. In the meantime the gas company are finishing their immense holder on Twelfth street, and will ask for a contract at figures as low as the city can reasonably demand. They have no contract with the city now and it is understood they are anxious to enter into one for a term of years at such prices as will drive other competitors from the field. Altogether the outlook is cheering.

NEXT MONTH'S EXCURSION TO ALASKA.—In the past few days several letters have come to THE OREGONIAN from the interior, inquiring particulars of the next excursion to Alaska. More than ordinary interest is felt in it because the national [illegible] association will go. Following is all the information obtainable at this time. The steamer will leave Victoria or Port Townsend between the 2d and 9th, and notice of the exact date will be published at the earliest possible time—say the 28 [illegible] inst. Fare for the round trip including meals and berths is $85. Passengers have the option of going from Portland to Victoria and returning inland or by open ocean. The time occupied is from twenty two to twenty six days. Berths can be secured by addressing A. L. Maxwell, ticket agent, Portland, first come first served. It is likely that upon this voyage extra points of interest will be visited.

Y. M. C. A. TO-NIGHT.—There will be a gathering of young men this evening in the association parlor for praise at 8:15. All are most earnestly requested to avail themselves of benefits to be derived from an hour thus spent. A most hearty welcome awaits all.

PECULIARITY IN FISH.—A wheel No. 2 on the Columbia among the catch the other day was a young salmon whose head resembles that of a poll parrot. This is the latest design in fish. We wait further developments among the finny tribe.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday to arrive here to-day: F. J. Grant, Mrs. Berry and family, W. B. Chandler and wife, Mrs. Rice, W. E. Smith, O. G. Bosh and Thomas L. Gay.

The excursion of Ivanhoe Lodge No. 10, Knights of Pythias, next Tuesday evening promises to be a grand affair. The steamer and dancing barge leaves Morrison street wharf at 8 P. M. for a moonlight trip up the Columbia. A fine band of music accompanies the excursion.

The statement made yesterday that arrangements had been made for the accommodation of delegates to the grand lodge A. O. U. W. at the St. Charles hotel was incorrect. The committee made no arrangements with any hotel but decided to allow each delegate to choose for himself.

There is no regular boat on the route from Astoria to Tillamook this summer. The travel in that direction was so light last year that no one cares to put on a boat this season. The steamer Field makes trips at irregular times but the best route to Tillamook at present is overland.

Frank Woodcock, employed in a logging camp near Westport, was drowned in the slough at that place on the night of the 3d inst., by falling overboard from a boat. The slough was dragged for three days without success in hopes of recovering the body. He was a son of Mr. A. Woodcock of The Dalles.

John A. Ahlstedt has been presented with a handsome gold headed cane by the members of Calanthe lodge, K. of P., of Albina as a token of their appreciation of the interest taken by him in advancing the interests of the order. The present is a valuable one and is esteemed far beyond its intrinsic worth by the recipient.

Allsky, Baum & Co. have broken up the sixty five pound stick of candy displayed in their window for the last few days and will give it away to the children of the city between 2 and 3 o'clock this afternoon. This is the first instance of free candy on record in Portland. No child is permitted to reserve five or six pounds and speculation is barred.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hendee, who were thrown from their buggy near Milwaukie a few days ago, are improving slowly. Dr. Joseph, who attends them, states that he will endeavor to have them removed to their home in East Portland to-day. Although Mr. Hendee's injuries appear to be more serious, yet the doctor is of the opinion that he will recover from them better than Mrs. Hendee will from hers.

AMUSEMENTS.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—To-morrow night the novelty of a Mammoth Double Uncle Tom's Cabin Company is to be presented at the New Market. What particular attraction there is in two Markses and two Topsies is not clear, though of course two trick donkeys, if they are on at the same time, will produce twice as much comedy as one donkey will. Perhaps one Marks will do a double equestrian act on both donkeys. Who knows? Why this threadbare play should still draw is one of the wonders of the age, yet the company have been playing to good business all over the coast. Jay Rial's Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe played to the largest week's receipts in the history of the New Market, not excepting Lawrence Barrett and the Emilie Melville opera and Rial had only four bloodhounds. This company advertises six.

A. O. U. W. GRAND LODGE MEETING.—The grand lodge Ancient Order of United Workmen will meet in the Grand Army's hall over Prentice's music store in this city, on the 9th. There is business of great importance to be considered at this meeting and will doubtless keep it in session for at least three days. The representatives will stop at the St. Charles hotel, where ample arrangements have been made for the accommodation of themselves and families.

THE EAST SIDE.

RUNAWAY

While H. D. McGuire was buggy riding on the Sandy road near Jansen's brickyard last evening the horse became scared and ran away at a lively rate. McGuire held on to the lines for several minutes and until a Chinaman suddenly popped out of the brush, when the horse made an extra jump and dumped him overboard. The animal continued his mad career till he arrived in front of the [illegible] office, when he [illegible] either accidentally or by design. The outfit is owned by George Beck. The buggy, a handsome $250 phaeton, is almost a total wreck. The horse is known as Sim Reed, and as a general thing is easy to manage. He escaped with a few scratches.

AN IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT

The petition presented to the council at its last meeting for the improvement of J street from Water to Sixteenth is signed by persons representing a majority of the property on the line of the proposed improvement, assuring its accomplishment. The style of improvement will of course vary according to the diversified nature of the street, and will include plank roadway and sidewalks below Sixth street, elevated to new grade where necessary, and gravel and plank roadways above that point, and sidewalks where necessary. A portion above Twelfth street requiring to be elevated on account of the gulch at that point. It is an important improvement, but to be of service in going to and from the ferry will require the rebuilding of the Water street bridge between J and I streets.

A BALKY HORSE

W. J. Fleming, the livery stable keeper, started out yesterday in trying to break a balky horse to cart and had not proceeded farther than Fourth and L streets when the animal took a notion to balk. After whirling around several times, during which he climbed on the sidewalk and made a glancing collision with the lamp post, he backed himself out of equilibrium and fell heavily on the right shaft, breaking it in the center. He appeared to understand things better when he was released from the cart, and the whip was applied liberally to his hind quarters.

A RAVAGE DRIVER

Charles Logus in passing off the ferryboat on the east side yesterday afternoon with his team drove ahead of a team driven by a man named L. Bert Creighton, which the latter did not relish and proceeded to obtain satisfaction. This he did by driving up alongside of Logus and striking him twice across the face with his whip and then driving off. Subsequently however Logus entered complaint against him in Justice Simpson's court and Constable Edwards arrested him in Portland. He pleaded not guilty and was held under $300 bonds to appear for trial at 10 o'clock to-day. Captain Schneider became responsible for his appearance and he was released.

THE PEAK SISTERS

The entertainment of the Peak Sisters under the auspices of St. David's Guild at Neppach's hall last evening was very well attended for a second performance, speaking well for the popularity of the sisters. The entertainment presented by them is good artistically, besides being novel and amusing, and keeps the audience in continual good humor. Mr. Harrison, the leader, is a comedian of no mean ability, and in a speech on woman's rights at the close of the entertainment delivered himself in a manner that would have done credit to an experienced artist. He brought down the house and sent the audience home happy. The remainder of the programme was much the same as before, not calling for special mention.

DEFENSE OF THE DANDELION

PORTLAND, July 8

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I saw in to-day's OREGONIAN where you tell us about the thistle, dog fennel, etc., being a nuisance. You also include the dandelion as being a nuisance. Well this hurts and I am sure if you were keeping bees you would tell us a different story about the dandelion. You admit that it is one of the first flowers in spring. So it is and this is what makes it a boon to the beekeeper and his bees. The bees get all their wants supplied from the beautiful dandelion. I think the healthiest and best honey is gathered from the dandelion. The bees also gather pollen, or what is called bee bread, to rear the young bees with from the dandelion. I consider any flower that produces honey a blessing to the human race.

THOMAS BRASEL

The early flowers of spring are welcome to all and must be more welcome to the beekeeper than to anyone else. Mr. Brasel views the dandelion from the standpoint of a beekeeper, but he is wrong in his idea that any flower which produces honey is a blessing to the human race. The spider sucks poison from the sweetest flower, it is said, and the bee gathers honey from the most noxious plants. If the dandelion yields in honey greens and medicinal roots enough to overbalance the damage it does to fields, lawns, etc., then it may be called a blessing. People who have no bees and desire neat, well kept lawns will [illegible] it a nuisance. It is in this, as in most others, our opinions are governed by our interest. The writer has no personal feeling against the dandelion, and always plucks the first here in the spring, and it recalls memories of a far off spot that he was home and where on a hedge gathered [illegible] of the bright yellow flowers made rings and chains of their hollow stems and tried to tell what o'clock it was by puffing their feathery crowns and thus aiding in scattering abroad the blessing or [illegible] of the plant.

EUGENE NOTES

EUGENE, July 8

It is estimated that there were 5000 people in Eugene on the 4th. This was the largest crowd ever gathered to our village. The attraction was [illegible] Cole's circus and on the 4th the celebration.

U., presided with dignity and grace becoming the occasion. Mrs. Foster had addressed the M. E. Sunday school in the afternoon, also the Baptist [illegible], and although she spoke nearly two hours in the evening there was but little sign of weariness on the part of the audience.

Washington Territory

Seattle Chronicle: The total amount recovered in the city justice's court during the last fiscal year as fines and costs collected in cases where the city was plaintiff reached the sum of $ [illegible]

Of the 138 patients now in the hospital for the insane at Steilacoom [illegible] Western Washington and thirty seven from Eastern Washington. [illegible] are at home on probation, four women and two men.

Yakima Signal: It is reported from [illegible] that while a well was being dug for Mr Dear [illegible] the auger of a drill [illegible] feet below the surface passed through [illegible] of coal one or two feet in thickness.

The trail from Carbondale to the glacier of Mt Tacoma has been repaired and opened for travel. Last Thursday while rain was descending in the valley below a new coating of snow about six inches in depth covered the ground on the line of this road at an elevation of 300 feet above the sea level.

Seattle exchange: A week or two since the British Columbia Indians came down to join the Snohomish Indians in burying the bones of their tillicums who have reposed in hollow trees and other odd places for years. They gathered the dismembered bones of their friends together and buried them in great holes at the Indian burying ground near the forks of the river. There were tons of bones mingled together in one common grave, and would puzzle [illegible] the owners to find their skeletons when they arrive on the sunny banks of the happy hunting ground.

Montana.

Private Bushard of the Eighteenth regiment infantry U S A committed suicide at Fort Benton [illegible] night of July 5th by hanging. He was a musician in the military band that assisted in the celebration yesterday. There was no known reason for the rash act, but he had remarked during the day that he was tired of life.

Phil Travis was killed a few days ago near Gibson's ferry in Lewis and Clarke county. It appears that Phil Travis and two or three others who had crossed at Gibson's ferry were riding along the road intending to look up some stray cattle after the round up. As they were going along Mr Travis reached forward to brush some flies off the neck of his horse, at which the horse took fright and stumbled at the same time falling down to his knees. Mr Travis was thrown forward with such violence on his head that a concussion of the brain was produced. He leaves a wife at their home near Chestnut in Meagher county and four children. He was 36 years of age. The remains were taken to Helena for interment.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Cincinnati Sun (Ind) In the case of Blaine the nomination was seeking the man. In the case of the democrats the man, every man is seeking the nomination.

Philadelphia Times (Ind) Gradually it is beginning to dawn on the minds of intelligent democrats that whatever the result to the party John Kelly must be unloaded.

The New York World (dem) The white-hatted Tammany delegation to Chicago will make a mistake if it undertakes to bulldoze the rowdy west. Argument spiced with logic will get further at Chicago than noise.

Cincinnati Enquirer (dem) If the democratic national convention intends to act for the greatest good of the whole party and we believe it does—it will surely place at the head of the presidential ticket Samuel J Tilden or George Hoadly.

New Orleans Times Democrat (dem) In a word the leadership of Mr Tilden means strength, harmony, enthusiasm and success. Can we afford to pass over an opportunity so brilliant, a prospect so assured? This is the question for the Chicago convention to answer. For our part the answer seems unavoidable.

Herbert Spencer on Majority Control

Popular Science Monthly

Under whatever circumstances or for whatever ends a number of men co-operate it is held that if difference of opinion arises among them, justice requires that the will of the greater number shall be executed rather than that of the smaller number, and this rule is supposed to be uniformly applicable be the question at issue what it may. So confirmed is this conviction that so little have the ethics of the matter been considered that to most this mere suggestion of a doubt will cause some astonishment. Yet it needs but a brief analysis to show that the opinion is little better than a political superstition. Instances may readily be elected which prove by reductio ad absurdum that the right of a majority is a purely conditional right valid only within specified limits. Let us take a few. Suppose that at the general meeting of some philanthropic association it was resolved that in addition to relieving distress the association should employ home missionaries to preach down popery. Might the subscriptions of Catholics who had joined the body with charitable views be rightly used for this end? Suppose that of the members of a book club the greater number thinking that under existing circumstances rifle practice was more important than reading should decide to change the purpose of their union and to apply the funds in hand for the purchase of powder, ball and targets. Would the rest be bound by this decision? Suppose that under the excitement of news from Australia the majority of a freehold land society should determine not simply to start in a body for the gold diggings but to use their accumulated capital to provide outfits. Would this appropriation of property be just to the minority? and must these join the expedition? Scarcely any one would venture an affirmative answer even to the first of these questions, much less to the others. And why? Because every one must perceive that by uniting himself with others no man can equitably be betrayed into acts utterly foreign to the purpose for which he joined them. Each of these supposed minorities would properly reply to those seeking to coerce them: We combined with you for a defined object; we gave money and time for the furtherance of that object; on all questions thence arising we tacitly agreed to conform to the will of the greater number; but we did not agree to conform on any other questions. If you induce us to join you by professing a certain end and then undertake some other end of which we were not apprised, you obtain our support under false pretenses; you exceed the expressed or understood compact to which we committed ourselves, and we are no longer bound by your decisions.

Dr Schliemann's Mansion

Athens Correspondence

The crowning interest to me in the Athens of to-day was the visit by the kindness of a friend to the mansion of Dr Schliemann. Here we saw some of the potteries and stone implements from Troy. The more valuable discoveries have been disposed of elsewhere. But the chief peculiarity is the adornment of the house. The frescoes of the walls and ceiling and the mosaics of the floors are representations of Homeric scenes and mythology [illegible] from the [illegible] found in the ruins of Troy. The whole house while built in the modern style reflects the Homeric [illegible]. This inscription is on the front [illegible] the marriage of Troy. Nor is Dr Schliemann's fondness for Homer confined to the adornment of the house. His only son is named Agamemnon and his only daughter Andromache. Dr Schliemann is still engaged in his favorite work. When he came in and we were introduced after a few hearty words in response to our congratulations he said "You see I am off to-morrow morning early for Tyrins in Argos. I have found another palace there that [illegible]"

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY July 8

Overland receipts include 600 kgs nails 45 pkgs tobacco 1 tank car coal oil

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours 600 ctls wheat [illegible] [illegible] hides [illegible] and [illegible] hides from the eastern section

WHEAT—The settled weather prevailing and the effects of hot days are hardly noticeable. Persons who have lately [illegible] the valley say that while the [illegible] is [illegible] fine and all [illegible] the general return. Probably some of the wheat on the low lands has been hurt by too much moisture but that on higher ground is correspondingly benefited. Douglas county will have a large crop of cereals this year and the Roseburg Independent says of the prospect: The weather since [illegible] rains has been unusually favorable for crops. It has been very hot and cool and dry. The [illegible] fears that rust would follow the wet weather [illegible] the [illegible] have been removed. There will be an unprecedented crop of cereals. Some hay that was down has been seriously injured but the quantity was comparatively inconsiderable. Take it all in all our farmers have every reason to be thankful and rejoice.

To-day's English markets are depressed by heavy arrivals off coast. The number of cargoes in that situation now offering [illegible] quite thirty and is [illegible] number for the season. Included are some eight or ten cargoes of Pacific coast recently reported. Last sorts of [illegible] Chicago wheat is again lower as is San Francisco. In this country values are certainly settling for the new crop which is now being harvested in a number of states. Opening prices must rule low and Pacific coast values will follow the general run. Operators here this [illegible] refuse to do much [illegible] The local market is almost without life.

OATS—Offerings ample and values unchanged. Sales are rather slower in the face of recent arrivals.

PROVISIONS—Bacon has moved more freely but other cuts are still in large stock. Lard is upheld in price. The Chicago market is generally lower except for pork which is now at the highest figure for the season.

POULTRY—Chickens sell better to-day under lessened offerings. We quote young $2 a [illegible] $4 50. Other poultry [illegible] and largely nominal as the request is unimportant.

EGGS—Very few in stock with more than enough orders to clean up. Some sold up to 30c and an advance on 25c is possible until arrivals increase.

WOOL—Attention is called to the lightness of receipts here of late. This plainly shows how dull the market is. Sellers are mostly those who cannot afford to hold and buyers are confined to mills and a limited number of speculators or agents having orders. We still quote a range of 12 to 17 cents as to grade. The eastern markets are even more depressed. New York mail dates reporting "The dull and unsettled condition of merchandise markets generally together with the continued slow movement of manufactured woolen goods has exercised an unfavorable influence on the market for this staple and extreme caution on the part of buyers has restricted purchases to absolute needs to tide over immediate wants. There has been a slightly improved inquiry from consumers as shown from the increased number of transactions reported but the quantities taken have been small with the aggregate of meagre proportions. Prices generally have ruled in favor of buyers and the tone of the market is barely steady. From Oregon wools are reported as selling at 2[illegible] [illegible] and 23 higher at [illegible]@25 or at an average decline of about 10 per cent as compared with last year."
